

EXTRAORDINARY HOTELS IN THE WORLD

M. Prokopenko

National University of Food Technologies

Creating a hotel is associated with the history of the need for travel and trips that were made by people. People who found themselves far from their places of residence, had to take care of themselves providing food, shelter and rest. Trips were associated with the risk, travelers were to do it not for their own pleasure: merchants hoped to make a profit hospice called the road of religious inspiration, scientists and researchers - knowledge of the world, expanding their horizons and more. Tourism has always influenced the development of hotel business and, conversely, the level of hospitality has always depended on tourism development.

Since ancient times, an accommodation establishment was seen a house for night lodging, and for lunch. So appeared inns, hostelries, 'caravan-serai's, taverns, guesthouses. Reception and entertainment guests and pilgrims were considered as a noble cause, which was reinforced by royal decrees, but then hospitality establishments started to gain another status, they used to be considered as sphere of profits, there was such peculiarity like competition, which motivated the owner to make their guesthouse better, more attractive and comfortable.

Over the years, accommodation establishments began to combine into corporations and were distributed into different classifications depending on many factors such as level of comfort, location, type of service, age of the clients and est. Today it is one of the most profitable areas of business, and its main task is to attract clients. But what is interesting for today's client? What will make him go and stay exactly in your hotel? The research is devoted to the most featured extraordinary hotels in the world you might have never heard about.

Husky-Lodge is the place, where guests can sleep in wooden cabins next to the working dog kennels. Join them in their training runs all year round as they pull sledges and bikes around the natural woodland, fields and mountain trails.

If you're a Siberian Husky lover, you get to appreciate at first hand how loveable - and hard working these dogs are, whatever the weather, returning to relax in your cabin by the wood fire. These hard working dogs love to run! Located 6 km from Karasjok, this charming design hotel has a wood-fired sauna and outdoor hot tub from which guests can admire the wonderful nature of Norwegian Lapland. Engholm Husky Design Lodge is set on a husky dog farm and provides an ideal base for those seeking a unique wilderness experience. Guests stay in cosy cabins, which have their own kitchenettes. Wi-Fi internet access and private parking are offered free to guests of Husky Design Lodge. Numerous outdoor pursuits will keep guests busy in any season.

Winter activities naturally include dog sledding but also snow mobile tours and cross-country skiing. Fishing, canoeing and hiking are popular past times during the summer months.

Mira-Mira' Cave hotel. Themed retreats to let your imagination run wild. Bed and Breakfast properties don't have to be boring and at Mira Mira there is something for everyone. Mira Mira has proved to be the perfect setting if you are daring and want something different and memorable. Situated on 22 acres of bush land, Mira Mira is a collection of 3 self contained, 2 bedroom fantasy retreats where guests have an opportunity to 'Live in Art". On entering the retreats, the colours and beauty will take your breath away. Each has been designed to set your imagination wild and to capture the light, views and beauty of the natural environment around you. The perfect setting for relaxation, rejuvenation and romance. By entering the doorway in the mouth of Magog and descending the winding steps lit by fire lanterns, you will find yourself in an underground world of intrigue and surprises. The Cave has magnificent views of the ranges from its picture windows that have been carved in to the hillside and is the ideal place for a relaxing or romantic weekend away.

Ice hotel. It was built in 1993 in Quebec, Canada, and despite it is the first hotel all over the world made from ice, it's used to be known as symbol of leading off the age of extraordinary hotels! The Ice Hotel has many rooms and theme suites, a magnificent chapel, the astonishing N'ice Club reception room and nightclub, decorative fireplaces, a Nordic-style relaxation space complete with 3 hot tubs and 1 sauna, and the famous ICE BAR, where cocktails are served in special ICE glasses.

Survival Capsule hotel. In France and the Netherlands you can discover a different kind of capsule. This time it's a survival capsule, with a little more room (but not too much anyway!) where you can spend a comfortable night accompanied by drinking champagne, decorated with animal skins and equipped with a complete collection of DVDs of "James Bond"! But be careful before you book, because this hotel moves between the Netherlands and France. Based at F.A.S.T. (Free Architecture Surf Terrain) - a unique and artistic surfers village on the boulevard of Scheveningen near The Hague, your room is a bright orange survival pod which once saw service on an oil rig platform. First created for accommodation as an art project in 2004, owner Denis Oudendijk has different models ready for use and is currently working on additional locations in central Amsterdam, Belgium and Nantes, France.

Development of global business area of hospitality is coming through its period of rapid growth, hotel industry is developing very quickly, we just cannot imagine what services hotels can provide us today and what is expecting for us in the future.

References:

1. <http://www.en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hotel>
2. <http://www.unusualhotelsoftheworld.com/Boundary>
3. <http://www.travelzoo.com/uk/uk-hotels-breaks/>

Scientific supervisor: O. Kokhan.