Annotation. Sustainable Tourism Programme supports cooperation between stakeholders for the development and implementation of innovative projects and good practices in resource efficient and low-carbon tourism planning, reducing the loss of biodiversity, conserving ecosystems, preserving cultural heritage, alleviating poverty, improving sustainable livelihoods and adapting to the reality of a changing climate.

Ecological tourism is the type of recreation which become more popular every day. To see the beautiful corners of nature, to get acquainted with the historical monuments want a lot. And sometimes everything is beautiful and wonderful is very close.

Ecological tourism is becoming more and more common type of recreation. After hard working weekdays and monotony citizens want to go to Nature, see it's beauty, breathe fresh air, listen to silence, think about different moments of life.

There are only one national park in the Kharkiv region - "Gomilshansky forests", which is one of the most beautiful in Ukraine. It was located on both banks of the Seversky Donets and Gomilsha rivers, it contains ancient archaeological monuments, floodplain lakes, hilly slopes covered with forests.

Dendropark is another place, transformed into place for people, in which one wants to be, where you want to come, and still save, so that both our children and grandchildren could admire this beauty, and still make a contribution to his accomplishment.

The arboretum was founded in 1972 alongside the buildings of the university (then the agricultural institute) thanks to the enthusiasm of teachers and students, their inspiration and hard work.

Such places should be more. Therefore, it would be good to work for the develop of care the natural reserve fund (reserves, reserves, national and landscape parks) in Ukraine were greater so that descendants also saw this beauty.
